

Bitter Fight Over Control Of Democratic Party Looms

By WILLIAM T. PEACOCK
Washington, Sept. 21 (AP)—Henry A. Wallace, private citizen, threw down the gauntlet to the Truman administration today for a continuing battle over foreign policy.

The ousted Secretary of Commerce told the department's employees in a farewell message he was resigning "in order that I may be free as a private citizen to continue to fight for world peace."

And in a nationwide radio address last night he declared that "winning the peace is more important than high public office. It is more important than any consideration of party politics."

He removed any doubt that he would battle on for his "go-easy-with Russia" ideas which brought him into conflict with the State Department and led President Truman to dismiss him from his official family.

Two Open Questions

"The success of any policy," Wallace said, "rests ultimately upon the confidence and the will of the people."

"There can be no basis for such success unless the people know and understand the issues—unless they are given all the facts—and unless they seize the opportunity to take part in the framing of foreign policy through full and open debate."

As the Iowan stepped out he left Congress members and others asking two major questions:

1. Would the President's action end the uncertainty over American policy caused by Wallace's New York address 10 days ago which contradicted Secretary of State Byrnes' position at many points?
2. What would be the effect with in the Democratic party and particularly on its chances in November's elections and in 1948?

Helps GOP Prospects

A helpfully expressed Republican view was that the dispute emphasized the differences within the Democratic party and enhanced Republican prospects of winning control of the next Congress.

Some Democrats contended their party's ranks had now been closed and its chances improved.

One Democratic Senator, talking with the understanding that his name would not be reported, said he thought it was largely a matter of what the CIO Political Action Committee does.

He said that no votes were going to be changed by the foreign policy row. But if the CIO-PAC makes only indifferent efforts to get out its votes, he declared, then the Democratic party may lose some Congressional districts where CIO help is required to put over its candidates.

Many politicians agreed that the developments presage a bitter struggle during the next two years for control of the Democratic party.

Party Control Fight

The issue is what group will name the 1948 presidential nominee and write the policies to which the party will be committed in that election year.

What is often called the party's left wing includes Wallace, Senator Pepper (D-Fla.), the CIO-PAC and other elements which would go farther in social legislation than the remainder of the party.

Among those mentioned in first speculation over Mr. Truman's appointment of a successor to Wallace is Price Administrator Paul Porter, generally classed as a "New Dealer."

Others included William L. Clayton, undersecretary of state and Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America.

MAN AND WOMAN ARE JAILED ON PERJURY COUNTS

Mrs. Mae L. Stoops, Gettysburg R. 2, and Roy A. Hiner, Battlefield hotel, were both in the Adams county jail today in default of bail of $2,000 each as a result of perjury charges laid against both on Friday afternoon.

The charges grew out of a desertion and non-support case brought by Mrs. Stoops against her husband, H. Russel Stoops and heard before the county court on Monday afternoon. At that time the court directed an investigation into facts in which prosecution and defense witnesses were in direct disagreement.

Mrs. Stoops, arrested in Waynesboro, where she was found at the home of her mother by state police Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, pleaded guilty to the perjury charge before Justice of the Peace John H. Basehore at a hearing at 6 o'clock Friday night. She was committed to the county jail after making the plea and failing to raise the $2,000 bond to appear before the next term of sentence court.

Given Support Order

Hiner, a local well-drilling contractor, was arrested Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock while engaged in well-drilling work in Cumberland township. He was placed in jail in default of $2,000 bail to appear for a hearing today before Justice Basehore.

At Monday's hearing Mrs. Stoops won a temporary support order of $5 a week from her husband after a hearing that lasted several hours. Judge W. C. Sheely indicated, in granting the order, that the order may be made permanent or rescinded after an investigation was made of the facts.

The facts in the case would form the basis for the charge of perjury against the witnesses whose statements were found to be at fault, the judge indicated Monday.

Cpl. Joseph Pochyba and Pfc. Frank Yercavage of the local substation of the state police conducted the investigation and made the arrests.

The testimony in the case heard Monday brought by one witness that Mrs. Stoops and Mr. Hiner had been together in a hotel at Norfolk, Va., registering as "Mr. and Mrs. R. Stoops." The witness charging Hiner and Mrs. Stoops with being at Norfolk was William Stoops, Waynesboro, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Russel Stoops. Hiner denied on the stand that he had ever been in Norfolk while Mrs. Stoops said she had visited Norfolk but not with Hiner.

The conflict in those statements was the point the court asked investigated.

To Lay Cornerstone For Longstreet Memorial In July

If present plans materialize the program held here in 1941 dedicating the ground on West Confederate avenue where a statue to General James Longstreet is to be erected will be exceeded next summer when the cornerstone for the monument is to be placed.

Mrs. Helen Dorth Longstreet, widow of the Confederate officer, today announced tentative plans for a celebration in connection with the laying of the cornerstone for the monument on July 2, 1947.

Mrs. Longstreet, head of the International Confederation of Women for World Peace and Goodwill, and head of the Longstreet Monument committee, who had charge of the celebration in 1943, plans to arrive here April 1 to complete arrangements for the affair.

President Invited

The program will depend upon success in raising $6,000 for the program and cornerstone prior to January 1. A committee of 100 is being formed, Mrs. Longstreet said, to raise the funds. Several local men have been asked to serve on the committee.

President Truman has been invited to attend the affair, Mrs. Longstreet says, and "will probably attend since his ancestors were Confederate soldiers." Governors or their representatives from the 48 states are also being invited.

The Hotel Gettysburg has been selected as headquarters and the ceremonies are expected to "surpass any similar event ever witnessed on this continent," Mrs. Longstreet writes.

During the war Mrs. Longstreet served as an aircraft worker at the Bell Aircraft plant in Georgia. The "Atlanta Journal," one of the largest newspapers in the south, had the following to say of Mrs. Longstreet's work in making bombers:

Her Role in the War

"Many of the employees at Bell Aircraft seemed on the verge of a break down at lunch before the official news came through (Japan's surrender)."

"But one of the oldest employees—both in years and in point of service—was joyful, and never lost her faith that all would be well. She is Mrs. James Longstreet, widow of the famous Confederate General of the War Between the States."

"Attired in colorful waist and slacks, with a jaunty maroon cap on her head, and sporting a gardenia in her hair, she told of her part on the production line."

"I've been an assembler and riveter for about two years," she said, "and have never lost a day from work, or been a single minute late. I will quit only when the last battle flag has been furled on land and sea."

"She drives her own car four miles to and from the plant, and is on the night shift. She's as spry as a cricket, and can hold her own with the best—and the youngest—of them."

"No wonder the Japs surrendered."

Charge Motorist Ignored Officer

Loy Dietrich, 220 Baltimore street, was charged today with driving too fast for conditions and with failure to stop at the signal of an officer before Justice of the Peace Robert P. Snyder.

The charges were laid against the local store manager by Borough Officer Kenneth Tawney who said that Dietrich was driving too fast on Baltimore street Friday night about 9:55 o'clock while Tawney was directing traffic at the football game at the intersection of Wainwright avenue and Baltimore street. Officer Tawney said that Dietrich's speed and his failure to stop on Tawney's signal nearly caused an accident at the intersection.

HEALTH SURVEY IN GETTYSBURG AREA FINISHED

All church services in town will start on Eastern Standard Time Sunday morning, September 29 - that means that Gettysburg has but one more week to enjoy Daylight Saving Time this year.

GEN. GOURAUD'S DEATH RECALLS INCIDENT HERE

The death Monday in Paris of General Henri Gouraud, one of the outstanding military figures of World War I, recalled to many Gettysburgians a dramatic incident which occurred during the memorial service conducted in the National cemetery here August 10, 1923, in honor of President Harding who had died a few days earlier.

During the exercises General Gouraud and his party of French and American officers arrived in the cemetery on a tour of the battlefield and were given front seats on the rostrum.

General Gouraud, commander of the Fourth French Army and known popularly as the "Lion of Champagne," was presented to the crowd by the presiding officer, the Rev. Fr. Mark E. Stock, and delivered an address in French, which was translated by an American officer in his party who stood by his side while the general spoke.

Given Ovation

The general strode forward with a limp and with his empty right sleeve hanging at his side and asserted he was honored to participate in the memorial service. He also paid tribute to the Rainbow Division which had fought beside his French troops in the 1918 offensive. The general had come here from Indianapolis where he had attended a reunion of the Rainbow Division. There he had received a cable from his government naming him an ambassador extraordinary to express to the United States the grief of the president of the French Republic and the French people at the death of President Harding.

"When America grieves, France grieves with her," he told the crowd, "and when America rejoices, then will France rejoice."

The general received a great ovation from the crowd when he concluded and the Citizens' band struck up the Marseilles.

Before the French general mounted the rostrum there had been memorial addresses by the late Rev. Dr. A. E. Wagner, then pastor of College Lutheran church, and the late George J. Benner, Esq.

Services will be held in the auditorium of Christ Reformed church, Littlestown, Sunday morning for the first time since July 21. The ceiling and walls of the auditorium were repaired and repainted and pews and woodwork were refinished. The Rev. John C. Brumbach, pastor, has announced that the exterior will also be painted in the near future.

Formal dedication of the auditorium will be held during the 200th anniversary celebration next spring.

MRS. J. B. BAKER KILLED IN CAR-TRUCK COLLISION

A huge tractor-trailer traveling down the New Cumberland Mountain two miles south of New Cumberland on the York road Friday night skidded and collided head-on with a car, killing one person and injuring three others.

Mrs. Rena Baker, about 64 years old, of York, died en route to the Harrisburg hospital. Mrs. Baker was the widow of the late Rev. Dr. Joseph B. Baker, former pastor of St. James Lutheran church here.

The injured are: H. Burrell Frey, 56, of York, who is in a critical condition; his son, Emerson T. Frey, 33, and his son's wife, Mrs. Grace Frey, 29, who are in serious conditions.

Ambulance on Another Call

The elder Frey, father of five children, is suffering a fractured skull, cerebral concussion, chest injuries and multiple abrasions and contusions of the body.

His son, a missionary home on leave from China, is suffering abdominal injuries and multiple lacerations and contusions of the head, face and hands. The missionary's wife is suffering a possible fractured skull and shock.

When the accident occurred the Harrisburg hospital ambulance was out on another emergency call and Dr. John Walmer, resident physician at the hospital, left the scene in an auto. Doctor Walmer was en route back to the hospital with Mrs. Baker when she died.

Both Vehicles Demolished

The driver of the tractor-trailer apparently escaped serious injury. Robert H. Morton, of New Cumberland, who arrived at the scene of the accident a few minutes after it occurred, said the truck and car were a mass of twisted steel. He and several other people managed to pull the injured from the smashed auto.

The cause of the accident was not known. State police were still investigating the accident this morning.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. R. A. Forgie, Enola; Mrs. Stanley Hoffman, Somerset, and Mrs. Walter Hill, Gettysburg; and one son, Lt. Joseph H. Army Medical Corps, Ft. Sam Houston, Texas.

U.S. POLICY IS NOT "TOUGH" IT IS "FIRM"

By DEWITT MACKENZIE (AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The Wallace episode has resulted in a good deal of bandying about of the phrase "get tough with Russia" which was discussed by the Secretary of Commerce in the explosive Madison Square Garden speech that now has resulted in his resignation from the cabinet.

Mr. Wallace employed that expression when he declared that the United States in dealing with the Soviet Union was reckoning with a force which cannot be handled successfully by a "get tough with Russia" policy. He said that "the tougher we get, the tougher the Russians will get."

Such colorful representations travel fast and far, and we are likely to hear much more about his one. It therefore should be noted now—and well—that the United States government never had promulgated a "get tough with Russia" policy. What it has done is to lay down a foreign policy of firmness—and in any language there's a lot of difference between toughness and firmness.

Appeasement Dead

Fortunately there is the middle course of firmness. Uncle Sam doesn't have to choose between a "tough" foreign policy and a "soft" one. If he did, he would have to be "tough," because these are hard days, and British Prime Minister Chamberlain demonstrated conclusively in 1938 that appeasement as a policy doesn't pay. Appeasement died at Munich where England, Italy and France handed Hitler little Czechoslovakia's Sudetenland on a platter and thereby encouraged him to embark on conquest of Europe.

As a matter of fact, the last thing in the world which Moscow would appreciate would be a "soft" policy. Russia isn't soft itself and despises softness in others. The Soviet deals in direct action, and respects nothing less.

Therefore Uncle Sam's policy is one of firmness, which he adapts to the circumstances in which he finds himself. Unhappily the circumstances frequently are difficult because the Russians are distrustful of America. They regard the United States as the keystone of Capitalism anathema to Communism. And Moscow looks upon much of the rest of the western world in the same light.

That's why a lot of observers think Winston Churchill was hollering down a rain-barrel at Zurich day before yesterday when he urged a partnership between France and Germany as the first step in creating a United States of Europe whose "friends and sponsors" would include both Russia and America.

Europe is divided into camps—the Moscow-dominated Slavic Bloc and the western countries. It will remain so until the suspicions are removed from the Moscow and the "capitalistic" nations.

The first Pennsylvania State Normal school he went to the Philippines in 1901 with one of the first groups of American teachers who began the educational program in the islands. Landing on Leyte, not far from the location of Gen. McArthur's invasion, he was soon notified by Governor Grant that his first task would be to build a schoolhouse. Another difficulty was that instead of teaching people who understood Spanish, the teachers found it necessary to learn the native Visayan language.

In 1903, after two years in the Philippines, Dr. Kepner spent a summer of study at the University of Göttingen, Germany, and a year as a fellow in biology at Princeton university.

Since the fall of 1904, he has been at the University of Virginia.

War Crimes Trial Witness Suicides

Tokyo, Sept. 21 (AP)—Lt. Gen. Tatsumi Kusaba, scheduled to be a leading witness for Russia at the International War crimes trial, died violently early Friday. Russian army officers said Kusaba had gulped poison in the downtown room where they held him under armed guard.

An American investigator said the former Commander of Japan's Kwantung army "died violently and vomited considerably."

American intelligence officers said Kusaba arrived yesterday with two other Japanese prisoners the Russians plan to use as key witnesses against former premier Tojo and 26 other war-makers.

A Russian spokesman said Kusaba insisted on wearing the uniform in which he was captured last summer in Manchuria. He said the poison presumably was secreted in the uniform.

The hardy Eupatorium celestinum, which goes under the popular name hardy ageratum, is a highly desirable August flower for the perennial border, where it will make itself at home and spread into cushions of considerable size unless curbed. May License Auto Finance Companies
Harrisburg, Sept. 21 (AP)—Automobile financing companies in Pennsylvania will be required to take out licenses and post bonds of $5,000 in order to do business in the commonwealth, if legislation recommended by a special legislative committee is put into law.

Rep. Franklin H. Lichtenwalter (R-Lehigh), chairman of the joint state government commission's committee on finance, said his group approved the recommendations at a meeting here yesterday. The committee was appointed to probe into what Governor Martin termed "sharp practices."

Lichtenwalter said the recommendations provided that in the future all automobile financing contracts would adhere to the following provisions: (1) require full disclosure of contract requirements, setting forth clearly the items making up the obligations; (2) make it mandatory that a copy of the contract be given the purchaser at the time the contract is signed; (3) prohibit the issuance of what the committee termed "balloon" notes, which Lichtenwalter described as an "old practice" of staggering the payments in such a way that they gradually became too large and made it necessary to refinance; (4) prohibit the purchaser from being required to execute separate notes in connection with the drawing up of the installment contracts.

Maroons Triumph Over York Catholic Eleven 19-0 Friday Evening

A vastly improved Gettysburg high school football team smashed its way to a 19-0 victory over York Catholic high here Friday evening in the first home game of the year and snapped a 12-game losing streak that extended way back into 1944.

Despite a light rain which fell throughout the game and which kept the attendance to about 1,400 fans, the number of fumbles was kept to a minimum.

Big Joe Hess, Maroon fullback, tallied all of the points for the victors, smashing through from the 1, 11 and 6-yard markers. He added the extra point following his second period tally on a line plunge.

Victory was particularly sweet to the Maroons, who have been victory-starved for three seasons. Prior to Friday night the Maroons had scored but one win in three seasons, that a 12-0 triumph over Waynesboro here on October 14, 1944. The triumph marked the second in 25 games for the locals. After losing the final game in 1942 the Maroons dropped seven straight in 1943 and three more before winning from Waynesboro. The 1944 season was finished with four straight setbacks and seven more were dropped last year. Delone extended the streak to 12 by winning the opener a week ago at McSherrystown.

Fine Performance

Coach Forney's lads dominated throughout the entire game and their performance was a delight to the fans who had been accustomed recently to sloppy action.

The Maroons marched 71 yards for their first touchdown midway in the first period. After taking the opening kickoff and failing to gain, York Catholic punted to Rodgers, who was downed on his 29-yard line. The determined and hard driving attack of the Forney-men produced five straight first downs in a drive to pay dirt with Hess going over right guard for the score. Rodgers and Sharrah turned in nice gains to assist Hess in the attack. Rodgers attempted to go around right end for the extra point but was stopped.

Hershey Recovers

A recovered fumble by Jay Hershey on the visitors' 32-yard mark paved the way for the second Gettysburg score early in the second period.

Sharrah, on two tries, made a first down on the 21. Rodgers picked up six yards at left end and Hess went through left guard for a first-down just short of the 10-yard stripe. On the next play Hess drove through a flock of York defenders at left end for the score. He added the extra point on a smash through the left side of the line.

Action slowed up considerably in the third period and there was never any serious threat of a score.

Midway in the final quarter the hustling Maroon linemen broke through to block Smith's punt and Bruce Westerdaal leaped into the air to gain possession of the ball on York's 18.

All Play Well

Hess and Rodgers picked up a first down on the 7. On his first try at right tackle Hess gained six yards and encountered little trouble in smashing over for a score on the next play. The try for the point was nullified when a Maroon back was detected in motion.

Although the opposition was not as stiff as encountered last week, the play of the entire Maroon squad was good enough to give optimism to local fans for more triumphs.

While Hess' work was outstanding in the backfield the fine play and hard running of Charley Rodgers, Wilmer Sharrah and Hershey was particularly pleasing. The performance of the line left little to be desired. Westerdaal and Don Stern were great improvements over a week ago. Bob Hottle and Bill Shull took care of the tackle positions in grand fashion while "Doc" Cole, center, Dale Sheffer and Bob Williams, guards, proved stone walls on the defense.

Carlisle Here Friday

The Maroons rolled up 11 first downs to their opponents' 2, one of York's coming on a pass. York took to the air 11 times, completed but one while two were intercepted, one by Rodgers and another by Bill Bucher, sub back. The Maroons at Harrisburg Wins Third In Series

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 21 (P)—After being held to two scratch hits for six innings, the Harrisburg Senators broke loose in the seventh and eighth frames to wallop Wilmington 9 to 3 and take a three to one edge over the Blue Rocks in the best of seven interstate league final playoff series.

Trailing 3-0 for six innings, the Giants suddenly went to work on Wilmington's Southpaw Weldon Lindamood and drove him to cover on six hits that were good for six runs. Al Letrick, Bob Ankrum and Johnny Blatnik each slammed doubles off Lindamood. Lloyd Rice homered for one of the Blue Rocks tallies.

The Giants need only one more victory to clinch the series and regain the Harold G. Hoffman trophy they captured in 1941. The fifth, and possibly final, game will be played here tonight.

BUMS BOUNCE REDS 5 TO 3; DETROIT WINS

By JOE REICHLER (AP Sports Writer)

What was mere conjecture a week ago has taken on aspects of probability as National League President Ford Frick announced today that in the event the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals finish the regular season in a tie for first place, there will be a three-game post-season playoff between the two contenders.

Not until the deadlock becomes a fact, however, will Frick name a playing site, which in all likelihood will be a neutral field.

Hanging on for dear life, the battling Brooks today were only one game behind the Cards, confident that they can catch the Redbirds at the final pole. Each has only eight games left and each has five more at home.

The Cards were idle yesterday as Brooklyn, with typical Dodger pluck, came from behind to defeat the Reds 5-3 helped by Dixie Walker's three-run homer.

The Detroit Tigers took advantage of Cleveland's use of almost an entire rookie squad, to scalp the Indians 15-1.

The majors' only other scheduled game, between the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns, was postponed by rain.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

New York, Sept. 21 (P)—As an aftermath of the recent National Boxing association convention, the NBA is distributing to boxing commissions and other interested parties a scholarly circular pertaining to a change in the weight limits of boxing classes. . . . The NBA already has empowered its executive board to lift the limits to 115, 122, 130, 140, 150, 165 and 180 pounds from 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160 and 175. . . . At considerable length the circular points out that weight limits have been hoisted in the past, usually by a champion who couldn't make the lighter poundage, and adds: "vital statistics indicate that boxers, like the race in general, are getting bigger. One medical authority attributed it to the attention paid to vitamins, diets, improvement in hygiene, sanitation, medical care and greater number of hours spent out of doors." . . . Wonder how come all those things haven't produced even one heavyweight who can give Joe Louis a tussle?

Pitt Opens Today Against Illinois

Pittsburgh, Sept. 21 (P)—The University of Pittsburgh, trying to make a football comeback under Coach Wes Fesler, opens the season today against touted Illinois, already tabbed as the team to beat in the Western conference.

Fesler is sending an outwitted, inexperienced club against Ray Eliot's big, fast eleven led by half-back Buddy Young, the greatest payoff runner at Illinois since Red Grange.

The Panthers' best answer to Young is halfback Robert E. (General) Lee, freshman flash whose only "seasoned" champions are ends Leo Skladany and Bill McPeak, tackle Jack Durshan and halfback Bill Abraham.

Besides Young, Eliot has Perry Moss from Tulsa to do the quarterbacking, and Julie Rykovich, Paul Patterson and Alex Agase, to name only a few.

DELONE LOSES TO NIGHTHAWKS BY 13-7 SCORE

Hanover high school's Nighthawks opened their season Friday evening by defeating Delone Catholic of McSherrystown 13-7 in a game witnessed by 5,000 fans, largest crowd ever to see a game in Hanover.

The victors tabbed both of their touchdowns in the second period.

In the first period the Squires marched from their own 30-yard line to Hanover's 15 where they lost the balls on downs. Later in the period Hanover drove from its 49 to the Delone 6 on four straight first downs as the period ended.

Moore made a first down on the 2 as the second period opened and two tries later plunged over for the score. A line plunge for the point failed.

Two plays later Bunty was attempting to pass and Stauffer stole the ball on the Delone 33. Moore crashed over from the one-foot mark after the Nighthawks had driven into scoring position. Rightmire added the point on a placement.

Delone scored early in the third period. Hanover had the ball on the Squires' 49 yard mark when Resh attempted to pass. His toss was batted around by Delone players with Murren finally gaining possession. Murren raced to the Hanover 25 and there lateraled to Rider who continued for a tally. Rider hit the line for the extra point.

Packers Upset By New York Giants

New York, Sept. 21 (P)—Unworking a wide-open offensive after their highly-favored opponents scored first, the New York Giants upset the Green Bay Packers, 35-21 in a national football league exhibition here last night.

A record crowd of 48,017 that turned out for the New York Herald-Tribune fresh air fund game was kept on its feet almost constantly throughout a wild first half that saw the Giants pile up four touchdowns and then remain in command to the finish.

The Packers rolled up 19 first downs to nine and passed for 275 yards to the Giants' 147, but the victors gained 305 yards to 84 on the ground.

Says Foe's Platform Is "Materialistic"

Erie, Pa., Sept. 21 (P)—Governor Edward Martin, Republican candidate for the U. S. Senate, criticized the Democratic party's platform as "materialistic" in an address last night before an Erie county Republican gathering.

The governor declared the platform of the rival party was "so materialistic" in its approach, it failed to acknowledge "the guiding hand of providence in the great nation." "Neither does it affirm its belief in, or adherence to, the principles laid down in the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States."

He compared the lack of recognition of divine guidance to statements of the Communist party and said:

"In contrast to this complete disregard for the divine source of our national strength the Republican platform asks the support of the citizens of Pennsylvania in order that this Commonwealth may go forward, under God, to increasing greatness in moral, spiritual and economic leadership."

Couple Jailed For Letting Kids Steal

Greensburg, Pa., Sept. 21 (P)—A man and his wife, convicted of permitting their two young children to burglarize summer cottages, were sentenced yesterday to ten days in jail, fined $100, and placed on probation for five years.

Judge George McWherter, passing sentence on Charles Fettes, 40, and his wife, Agnes, on charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors and receiving stolen goods, told the couple:

"The offense of training children to be thieves is far worse than that of receiving stolen goods or stealing itself."

The children, aged 11 and 13, are in custody of juvenile court authorities. Two married daughters are awaiting sentence on charges of breaking and entering.

Arbitration Hope Dims At Pittsburgh

Pittsburgh, Sept. 21 (P)—Chances for arbitrating the contract dispute between the Duquesne Light company and an independent employees union sank today as night shift workers gathered for a vote following a three to one rejection by day workers of the firm's arbitration proposal.

The day workers voted last night 1,035-309 against accepting arbitration as a means of ending the long-drawn out controversy. The big Pittsburgh metropolitan district has had two short-lived power strikes in less than seven months.

Union officials did not disclose their plans in the event that the majority of the 3,200 union members reject arbitration. However, yesterday the union leaders directed all members to quit their jobs "if necessary" to attend a hearing Tuesday on an injunction issued by the Allegheny County Court September 10 forbidding a strike.

The union seeks a pay raise of about 20 per cent and other contract benefits. Company officials were not available for comment on the workers' vote.

Today's Talk

TRYING, FAILING—THEN PLUS!
Nothing is more absorbing reading than the books of those who achieved greatly, after a multitude of tries and failures. It's the people who give up who have no story to tell that is interesting. It's the striving to the end, even though that end may be failure, that is inspiring. "For what if Heaven shall question, Ere its judgment shall be given—Not hast thou won, but only Hast thou striven?"

The triers—who try over and over again—who throw the failures to the side, like the plow throws over, and buries the good earth, are the triumphant ones of this earth! They are the undefeatable who move the world forward to better and useful things.

It's what you put on top of all the tries and the failures that counts. Electricity was always around, but it took a Franklin and an Edison to harness it, and to point the way to useful ends. This one discovery, and the endless discoveries for its use, have brought comfort and added years to millions.

Success is the plus result, after all the tries and failures have seasoned the soul and put light into it! Many men and women have gone to their last sleep, thinking their life futile—but with the breath of hope, caught by the winds of Appreciation and Understanding, and fanning it into life and immortality. Edgar Allan Poe, Stephen Foster, John Howard Payne, and a host of others, are examples.

Both General Grant and Abraham Lincoln were for years discouraged and thought that nothing was to come out of their existence—but the accumulated tries and failures only paved the way surer to their fame and usefulness. General Lee, who lost the Civil War for the South, won the love and affection of both the North and the South, and his fame will endure with increasing lustre.

The habit of trying, early acquired, has no adequate substitute. Character is built by it—step by step. And it is this habit of trying, failing again and again, yet going on, that constitutes our standing among men and the world.

Next time you dent a fender remember Ben Franklin's little motto: "The things which hurt instruct."

Plenty of Air
These days there is little excuse for not having sufficient air in the tires, even if filling stations are miles apart on your travels. One plan is to hook up a portable pump which screws into one of the spark plug openings. A newer stunt is the use of bottled carbon dioxide. One of these cylinders will not only inflate three tubes, but will serve as a fire extinguisher. Then there is the long length of tube which can be used for drawing some air from the spare to bring up a sagging tire on one of the wheels. This should be used merely for convenience and should always be supplemented with a pump of some kind.

Dilution Under Control
Leaving crankcase dilution to the car engineers is poor business, for most of it can be controlled by the driver himself. It is poor policy, for instance, to use an over-lean mixture in an effort to boost mileage. This calls for excessive choking during cold motor operation. Too much idling also increases dilution, as will faulty ignition. Just one missing spark plug will allow a lot of unburned gas to work down into the crankcase and dilute there.

On the plus side is the wisdom of putting the engine to work on a hill whenever one is available. In fact, I often go out of my way to climb hills, for they heat up the oil and burn off diluent. More frequent oil changes are also beneficial.

Mechanic Joe Speaking
"When I am carving into a motor the owner often asks why it is that cylinders wear tapered with the greater wear at the top. They realize why cylinders also wear oval (due to the pistons bearing more heavily on one side of the walls), but the matter of taper has them stumped. So I do a little explaining like this: "A piston's top is hotter than its skirt. Thus the top expands more. Result of this is increased pressure on the top portion of the cylinder wall. Another point to consider is that there also is much less effective lubrication ate the cylinder tops."

Checking For a Noise?
It may help you when trying to track down a bad noise in the car's body to know that you can often get a better slant on the situation by holding the driver's door open. At least this helps in pinning down the location of the noise. It also serves to let you know whether the noise is originating inside the body or down in the chassis. I have found it helpful to drive by a stone wall when listening for noises. The wall acts like a sounding board.

If you have had new breaker points installed and the engine is starting to kick up a fuss again the chances are that the little bumper block of the breaker arm isn't riding the cam of the distributor shaft too well. There has been a lot of this sort of trouble recently, and it has been largely confined to motorists who have bought new points. Bumper blocks are sensitive to any roughness of the cam. In fact they will wear down in short order unless given a chance. One thing that will help the situation materially is to put a very little vaseline on the cam. Just a wipe is sufficient. Don't overdo it as the lube will get on the points and cause trouble. One reason the old points so often run along without too much trouble is because there is a bit of lube on the distributor cam. It favors the bumper block by helping to maintain what is technically known as cam angle.

Toward Better Fans

From here on I think we'll see more attention paid to cooling fans for the car. With emphasis on silence it is possible that wide blade fans will come in for more consideration. They also deliver greater air volume, produce less air turbulence and lessen vibration, and while a fan that delivers more air calls for more power it is likely that the surplus power of the average modern motor justifies this. Motor car engineers have favored narrow blade because of their lighter weight, but in too many cases they have been very noisy at higher speeds. Increasing the diameter of a fan increases tip speed and more (Please Turn to Page 5)

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my husband, Joseph Scott, who departed this life two years ago, September 21, 1944.

Two years have gone and gone to stay, Since my dear husband was called away.

My heart is sad, yes sad today, Because he went and could not stay.

I'll remember you dear, while there's life in my heart, And though God in his wisdom has torn us apart, In your home up in Heaven you must know that I'm true, To the love and esteem that was only for you.

And I pray that when life for me comes to an end, I will meet you in Heaven, my own dearest friend;

My husband, my sweetheart, my one dearest love, God guard you and keep you 'till I meet you above.

Devoted wife, Edith Scott and Family.

Vatican Saddened By Yugoslav News

Rome, Sept. 21 (AP)—A Vatican prelate said Friday that the arrest of Archbishop Alojzije Stepinac, head of the Roman Catholic church in Yugoslavia, had "saddened but did not surprise" the Vatican in view of the persecution which the church attributes to Marshal Tito's government.

This prelate, who is close to the Vatican's state department, said the arrest at Zagreb two days ago of the archbishop came after all Catholic pastors in Yugoslavia read from their pulpits the archbishop's letter insisting upon the rights of Christian education for youth and other religious freedoms.

Announcements from Belgrade said Stepinac had been arrested to await trial with 18 others—12 of them Catholic priests—on charges of collaborating with the Ustachi, war-time terrorist group of the Anton Pavelic puppet regime in Croatia. Churchmen here estimate 400 Roman Catholic priests have been arrested in Yugoslavia since the war's end.

(By The Associated Press) More than 2,600 service personnel are due to embark from three transports today at east and west coast ports.

The arrivals:

At New York: Westerly Victory, 1,404 troops; Lewiston Victory, 1,296 troops. Both vessels from Bremerhaven.

At San Francisco: William E. Borah from Honolulu, five troops.

angular pitch of its blades increases turbulence. Just for the record both of these changes result in increased noise.

Tricks in Backing

I don't know how you figure it, but when I am doing a job of using reverse gear I find it easier to look out the rear window than to stick my head out the driver's window. I also find it a mighty good idea to survey the land and the entire situation behind before starting to back up. The car's horn is most ineffective when backing because the noise goes the other way. In spots where there are pedestrians behind the car it is always effective to accelerate the engine a few times. At night, if the car is not equipped with a suitable backing light, the stoplights are most effective. Keep one foot lightly on the brake pedal as you back.

Still Have My Vote

Among the features which are not in vogue but which to me seem to have every advantage over existing fads are: spare tires mounted in fender wells where they are easy to get at and where they serve as side protectors, fog lights without yellow lenses which have been demonstrated to have no advantage over white light, more spokes in the steering wheel as insurance against having the wheel slip out of your hand in event of a blowout, and dull finishes for the body which look better over a long period of time than merely when the car is new and polished.

Q. Can you tell me what would cause the low and second gears of secretary of commerce might lead to a third party.

Talk of a third party cropped up among some labor men last spring when Mr. Truman cracked down on the railroad strikers and asked Congress for drastic labor controls.

Shortly thereafter, however, Wallace warned that a third party move could result only in a "reactionary victory."

MONDAY AND TUESDAY
"The Wife of Monte Cristo," PRC production starring John Loder, with Lenore Aubert, Charles Dingle, Martin Kosleck and Eduardo Ciano, arrives Monday at the Majestic theatre.

The production is a dramatization of a story by Alexandre Dumas never before dramatized. It recounts the exploits of Edmond Danthes as "The Avenger" and his wife, Haydee, after Monte Cristo's escape from the Chateau D'If, and their fight with De Villefort, prefect of police, and Danglars, his henchman, who are foisting poisonous "medicine" on the public during a devastating plague in Paris.

WEDNESDAY
Gripping mystery and a haunting quality of suspense are the outstanding qualities of David O. Selznick's production of "Rebecca," winner of both the Academy Award and the National Critics' Poll, and now back for a popular return engagement at the Majestic theatre through United Artists release.

Directed by Alfred Hitchcock, universally recognized as a master of melodramatic thrillers, "Rebecca" was produced with Joan Fontaine and Laurence Olivier in co-starring roles. The stellar-quality supporting cast includes Judith Anderson, George Sanders, Nigel Bruce, C. Aubrey Smith, Reginald Denny, Gladys Cooper, Florence Bates and Leo G. Carroll.

Chapter 10

Martin grinned. "I'd like to know. She said her name was Mary Smith, but I didn't believe her and I'm sure she didn't expect me to. She was pretty as a little red wagon and nicer than I usually prefer them."

"How did you meet her?"

"She was having trouble with a guy who'd had too many drinks, in front of a joint on Blecker Street near Sullivan. I walked her to Rosetti's place in Carmine Street and we had a couple of drinks."

"And then you went home?"

"Damn it, Cloud, I haven't been home yet. The girl and I found interesting things to talk about and I guess the drinks made us adventurous. I rented a car and we went to the Sound-of-the-Sea Club out past Port Washington. We didn't get back to town till after six, and right away we had that smash-up."

"She was scared stiff. She beat it while I was trying to find out how badly the other fellow was hurt."

Cloud tore a blank sheet from the notebook, wrote on it, and got up and opened the door. He gave the paper to the plump man in the brown suit.

Martin lit a cigarette and inhaled aromatic smoke. "Well, that's the alibi. Now don't you think you'd better tell me about the murder?"

The detective's eyebrows rose a fraction of an inch. "So you know there was one."

"I know you didn't put a teletype chaser out for me and make a split-second timetable of my movements because you're writing my biography. In fact, I know practically everything — except who is dead, when and where and how he got that way, who did it for what reason, and why you're taking such a flattering interest in me?"

Cloud's look was steady and searching. "Don't you know any of those things, King? Honestly?"

It was time to register impatience. Martin decided. He stood up, threw his cigarette on the floor and crushed it with his foot. He said, "I want one or two things right away. I want to go home, or I want to call Max Lubin, the lawyer."

"You wouldn't be comfortable at home," Cloud told him. "Your apartment is full of cops and your bed is occupied by the corpse of a murdered man."

"A—what?"

"A body, Richard Seale's."

"I guess you wouldn't kid about a thing like that."

"No, I wouldn't," Cloud said.

"Well, you've heard all I can tell you. Will I need a lawyer?"

"Maybe. We'll see. Wait a minute."

The detective left the room. He was gone perhaps two minutes, and when he came back Lee Dexter was with him.

"Dexter found the body," Cloud explained.

"I was trying to do you a favor. An old friend of mine, Doc Eagles, is assistant managing editor of the Chicago Dispatch. He was in New York not long ago and offered me a job cut there any time I wanted it. I thought of it after you left with Doran last night and tried to phone you three or four times without getting an answer. So, being a bad sleeper, I wandered down your way early this morning to see if you felt like going West."

"I do right now," Martin muttered. Secretly he was pleased that Dexter had not mentioned his own phone call from Rosetti's. It meant that Dexter was on his side; and the debonaire ex-newspaperman could be a loyal friend and a shrewd adviser.

Cloud asked, "What happened to the letters you got from Morrissey and Mrs. Messmer? I phoned Doran and he's having photographs of them sent from the Record office, but I'd like to look at the originals."

Martin thought swiftly. "I took them home and put them in my bookcase for safekeeping, in a copy of Lawrence's Seven Pillars of Wisdom." That was true, as far as it went. "Morrissey asked for his letter back last night and I promised to return it."

"Morrissey can wait. Seale undoubtedly knew of them."

"I told him," Martin said.

"That might explain why he was at your place."

"And somebody else wanted them, too," Dexter put in. "That one followed Seale there and finished him. Find the person besides Seale to whom the letters were terribly important and you'll have your assassin. Only I'd just as soon you didn't find him unless it's necessary to clear Marty."

Martin said unhappily, "by the way, how was he killed?"

"Tire iron," Cloud told him. "Somebody beat in his skull with it. The ends of the iron fit marks on the door and door frame where it was used to break the lock."

The plump man in the brown suit came in, put a sheet of paper on the table before Cloud and left without speaking. Cloud read what was written on the paper without changing expression.

"I checked on the people who met with Seale in Morrissey's private office just before you socked him," Cloud said to Martin.

Martin said, "You've made me mighty conspicuous, Cloud. You've practically eliminated everyone except me."

Cloud sighed, frowning at the

Joan Leslie and Dennis Morgan in a scene from "Two Guys From Milwaukee."

In these hectic days of vanishing royalty in search of new jobs, the new Dennis Morgan-Jack Carson-Joan Leslie starring film, Warner Bros. "Two Guys From Milwaukee," which opens at the Majestic theatre Thursday, promises to be both timely and funny.

The tale of a reluctant prince who gets a chance to learn about democracy in 24 incognito hours in New York, the film is a merry lesson in how to lose a throne and win friends and influence practically nobody in 90 minutes of cinematic fun and frolic. An excellent supporting cast includes Janis Paige, S. Z. Sakall, Patti Brady and Rosemary DeCamp.
